The company's origins date to 1973. In 2003, Alpha Mechanical Service was spun off from A&A Mechanical, with a focus on service work. In 2010, the company established its current headquarters at 7200 Distribution Drive in Louisville's Riverport Business Park. Today, Alpha Energy Solutions serves thousands of customers and is dedicated to customer service.

Alpha's revenues have grown at an impressive rate of 20 percent annually since 2005. The dramatic growth has been fueled by a commitment to customer service, strong relationships with a growing customer base, and a sales and marketing strategy that sets Alpha apart from its competitors.

While the base of the company's operations is in Louisville, Alpha Energy Solutions has used aggressive sales strategy to expand into the current coverage area.

A key area for future growth is energy management services, which take advantage of new technologies to help customers increase their energy efficiency. Alpha is clearly leading the way in providing innovative solutions for a wide variety of customers, using benchmarking initiatives and technology to reduce energy costs.
